2013-14

Instead of reviewing one criterion each month, the components from each criterion have been assigned to a quarter. Guiding questions for each component will be sent out prior to the start of the quarter. You will have the flexibility to determine in which month of the quarter you will provide evidence/artifacts for each component. For example, in Quarter 1, you may determine that you want to review Crit. 1- V(1) in October and Crit. 3- I(3) I in November. You will notice that some of the components have an italicized I or M. Because proficiency on many of the rubrics includes both implementing (I) a strategy or behavior and monitoring (M) its effect, we will look at those particular rubrics twice (and in one case thrice) during the year. Though the system is a bit more complicated, the built in flexibility will hopefully allow the evaluation process to more closely reflect the work rhythms of the principalship.
